

ANIMAL LAW RESEARCHERS CLINIC

Animal Law is an emerging branch of Law, which is leading the way to a better understanding and respect for nature and its inhabitants. In a few years it will be an essential element in the education of new generations, but also in the strengthening of the social and business network. We cannot do without animals to build a more balanced and just world. The Animal Law Researcher' Clinic aims to form a stable community of people interested in "knowing more, in order to work better for animals" in a simple, accessible way and incorporated into everyone's activity.

WHAT IS IT?

The Animal Law Researchers' Clinic is a space for dialogue and learning for scholars and professionals of all ages, countries, genders and positions, with the common nexus of listening to one's own voice and that of other colleagues working in the field of Animal Law and related sciences. It is a forum of ideas and activities that takes the animal world as the centre and basis of reflection.

HOW?

Each of the guests invited to the Researchers' Clinic will have a short time (15') to present their interests and current objectives in the areas of common interest, according to a timetable attached. This may be the preparation of an article, a book, a doctoral thesis, a Master's thesis, a research or legislative project, a commentary on a judgement, the management of a public policy, or the genesis of an idea. The presentation is simple and open to questions from the audience, who then take the opportunity to express their doubts, remarks or suggestions. The originality of these sessions lies in the fact that both more experienced researchers (senior) and those who are just starting out in intellectual work (junior) listen to each other and talk to each other, confront their ideas and exercise, in a dynamic and enriching form of intellectual coexistence. Each session ends with a short research capsule, which aims to provide working tools for progressing in one's own work. The frequency is weekly/fortnightly.

WHY?

For four reasons:

- Because research is an attitude, a way of life, a daily passion and requires continuous learning and constant exercise.
- Because research is not a solitary task, but is stimulated by dialogue and the sharing and exchange of ideas. Especially intergenerational.
- Because research in Animal Law and related sciences is for everyone. It is not confined to the academic sphere, but is a meeting point for professionals from all fields who aspire to excellence.
- Because research in Animal Law has a profoundly social and democratic dimension and aspires to be the backbone of 21st century society.

OBJECTIVE

We aim to dignify and raise the profile of research related to animals and Law, in its broadest sense: theoretical research and applied research. We want to promote intergenerational dialogue. We aspire for intellectual work to be enriched by the exchange of ideas and the incorporation of the arts (music, painting, literature) into the daily horizon. We believe that the practice of the routines of a little-known profession (that of researcher) is essential for the advancement of our society.

PARTICIPANTS

The Animal Law Researchers' Clinic, promoted by the ICALP (UAB), is the result of collaboration between renowned business and social entities (Editorial Tirant lo Blanch; Fundación CyO; Committee for the Defence of Animals' Rights of the Sabadell Bar Association) and prestigious universities (Universidade Federal da Bahia and Universidade Católica de Salvador de Bahia. Brazil; Centro di Studi Latinoamericani della Università di Roma II, "Tor Vergata". Italy; Zhognan University of Economics and Law. Institute of Environmental and Resource Law. China; Michigan State University College of Law. USA), which are committed to the consolidation of a culture of collaborative effort.

PRIZE

The awards materialize the recognition and respect for an activity, while underlining its importance for a social environment.

The Animal Law Researchers' Clinic wishes the participants in the Clinic to see the results of the activity carried out during the annual sessions recognized. For this reason, an award has been created to highlight work well done and in an excellent form. The terms and conditions of the Award will be announced in due time. The papers will be published in the journal dA. Derecho Animal (Forum of Animal Law Studies) and the collection "Animals and Law", both promoted by the Tirant lo Blanch publishing house and the ICALP.

CALENDAR

DATE	JUNIOR RESEARCHER	SENIOR RESEARCHER	RESEARCH POD
5 October	Laure Gisie Doctoral Student. ICALP (France)	Dr. Giménez-Candela. ICALP. Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona. What is Animal Law Research?	Difference between footnote and internal cross- referencing
19 October	Miryam Olivera Doctoral Student. ICALP (Spain)	Dr. Tagore Trajano Federal University of Bahia (Brazil) Animal Law in Brazil	Indexes: Summary

26 October	Marianné Núñez MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Perú)	Verónica Aillón Victoria Animal (Ecuador) Animal Law in Ecuador	Indexes: Index of abbreviations
2 November	Iris Favà MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Spain)	Dr. Alberto Olivares Researcher Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas (Blanes). UNIR Ocean protection and blue carbon	Indexes: Topical index
9 November	Daniel Navarro Doctoral Student. ICALP (Spain)	Dr. Luciano Rocha. Federal University of Bahia (Brazil) Analogy and disanalogy between structural speciesism and structural racism	Indexes: Index of Sources
16 November	Silvia Carlota Parodi MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Peru)	Dr. Gustavo de Baggis National University of Litoral (Argentina) Jurisdictional intervention as a disruptive element in the recognition of animal rights	Bibliography
23 November	Sergio González MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Spain)	Dra. Maria Baideldinova KIMEP University (Kazakhstan) Animal Welfare Law in Kazajstán: work in progress	The reading note
30 November	Bo Li Doctoral Student. ICALP (China)	Dr. Carlo Salzani Researcher. Messerli Research Institute, University of Veterinary Medicine Vienna (Austria). The limits of imagination: Animals, empathy, anthropomorphism.	Academic writing: a style of its own
7 December	José Ignacio Binfa MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Chile)	Dr. Heron Gordilho Federal University of Bahia (Brazil) Habeas Corpus applied to animals: Procedural Issues	Punctuation marks

14 December	Diana Aguilar MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Ecuador)	Dr. Riccardo Cardilli University of Rome "Tor Vergata" (Italy) The Roman Heritage of Natural Law: animalia, homines, res communes omnium, ius naturale	Academic communication: oral and written
21 December	Yvonne Niño MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Spain)	Dr. Gerardo Caja. Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona Bee Welfare: an approach to bee feeling	Article, Paper, Working in Progress
11 January	Martina Pluda. Doctoral Student. ICALP (Italy)	Dra. Silvia Zanini ICALP Clearfarm project: precision farming (PLF) as the new frontier of animal welfare on the label	Review and Foreword
25 January	Marta Fernández MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Spain)	Dr. Iván Fructuoso Courts of Sabadell (Spain) Animals and the process	Poster
8 February	Juan José García-Rebollo del Río Autonomous University of Querétaro (Mexico) Animal law as a tool to guarantee the welfare of the sentient collective	Prof. David Favre Michigan State University (EUA) A treaty to address COVID and Wildlife	Paper and communication
22 February	María Ballester MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Spain)	Dr. Gemma María Varona Basque Institute of Criminology (Spain) Restorative circles as a response to crimes against animals	Inaugural and Closing Lecture
8 March	Raquel Cerezo MT Master in Animal Law and Society (Spain)	Dr. Elena Amanda Liberatori Contentious-Administrative and Tax Court of Buenos Aires (Argentina)	Seminar

		Sandra's Habeas corpus: a pioneer sentence
22 March	Marie Laffineur University of Montpellier, Institute of European Human Rights Law (IDEDH) (France) The growth of veganism in France: The law and the current challenges	Dr. Alexandra McEwan Central Queensland University (Australia) How can we think about multi- species justice in the context of domestic violence?	Round Table and Discussion
5 April	Luis Domingo Gómez Maldonado Santo Tomás University (Colombia) Hippopotamus and animal juridical personality	Dr. Rosa María de la Torre Universidad Michoacana de San Nicolás Hidalgo (Mexico) Constitutional principles and public policies in favour of other animals: a necessary articulation.	Ordinary Class (Degree)
19 April	Daen Morales Biofutura AC (Mexico) The jaguar in speciesism: challenges and mechanisms for its conservation	Dr. Taeli Gómez University of Atacama (Chile) The Contributions of the Complexity Paradigm to Animal Law	Master's teaching
3 May	Antonia Eraud Horse Emotion (France) A scientific veterinary intervention as a tool for proposing animal protection laws	Dr. Helot Zarza Universidad Autónoma Metropolitana Unidad Lerma (Mexico) Jaguar conservation: challenges and perspectives in the 21st century	Research Project
17 May	Karin Rosenberg Lawyers for Animals Foundation (Chile) Animals do not work	Dr. Peter Li University of Houston- Downtown (EUA) Animal Law in China: Challenges and perspectives	Report of results
31 May	Israel González Marino Universidad Central de Chile (Chile) The constitutionalisation of animal protection	Dr. Eduard José Cunilleras Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona (España) Welfare in working equids: human-horse relationship	Survey
14 June	Maria Helena Saari University of Oulu (Finland)	Dra. Izabel Rigo Portocarrero UNIR (Spain)	Publishing (book, journal,

	Animals as actors in education: towards an educational reform for cross-species sustainability	International trade and sustainability: Social and environmental sustainability criteria in the WTO	Collected Writings, Tribute, Anniversary)
21 June	Martín Testa University of Buenos Aires (Argentina) An approach to non-human animals as vulnerable and exposed subjects in consumer relations.	Dr. Thiago Pires Oliveira University of Sao Paulo (Brasil) The ideological manipulation by climate change denial applied to the relationship between livestock exploitation and deforestation of the Brazilian Amazon	Copy Editor
July	Closing session

ORGANISED BY

PARTNERS

ACADEMIC DIRECTION

Dr. Marita Giménez-Candela, Full Professor, Director of ICALP and Director of the Master in Animal Law and Society at the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona.

COORDINATION

Marga Barrera

formacion@derechoanimal.info